"FLY builds trust and respect for others and it's a give-and-take between adults and students. It just goes a long way to building a good, positive school culture."
Donald Scatena, Director of Student Services,
San Mateo Union High School District

"This is the best program I've ever been to because it helps us understand instead of putting us down. It's not punishment, it's learning. You get a second chance to understand what you did was wrong."

About Fresh Lifelines for Youth

Founded in 2000, Fresh Lifelines for Youth (FLY) is an award-winning nonprofit working to break the cycle of juvenile violence, crime, and incarceration. FLY believes that all our children deserve a chance to become more than their past mistakes. FLY's legal education, leadership training, and mentoring programs motivate and equip youth to change the course of their lives. We are also committed to helping our juvenile justice systems become more just, humane, and equitable. As a result, FLY increases safety in our communities and decreases the costs and consequences of crime.

Research shows that youth who are exposed to legal education are less likely to break the law.

FLY staff and trained volunteers teach FLY’s nationally recognized legal education curriculum, which covers topics such as police encounters, accomplice liability, three strikes, theft, vandalism, drugs, gangs, and police arrests.

The course is taught in a non-judgmental and engaging manner that makes the youth more willing to learn. It is also an excellent vehicle to teach critical life skills like anger management, problem solving, conflict resolution, and resisting negative peer pressure. Through the classes, young people understand the consequences of crime and become inspired to change behaviors that could act as barriers to future success.

Key Program Features

- Taught at schools, community centers, and juvenile facilities, up to 30 youth per site.
- Youth are referred by probation officers, judges, principals, teachers, counselors, and community members.
- Course length is flexible up to 13 weeks. The final week is a recognition ceremony where youth receive certificates of completion and can reflect and celebrate.
- Class length is flexible up to two hours depending on programming needs.
- Taught by FLY staff and volunteer facilitators trained on FLY’s curriculum, best practices in classroom management, and evidence-based practices such as Cognitive Behavioral Therapy and Motivational Interviewing.
- Youth take a field trip to a local law school where they tour the campus and act out a mock trial.
